

ABSTRACT

A hanger for plastic strips having uniformly spaced apertures along an end portion thereof, to form a strip door across an opening. Uniformly spaced studs are provided on a mountable backing plate to support the plastic strips. A retaining plate retains the strips on the studs which have locking means along the length thereof, so as to provide an adjustable effective length for each of the studs.